THE MAGAZINE OF THE VIRGINIA MUNICIPAL LEAGUE

2021 Editorial Calendar

January/February – Broadband now!

If working, schooling, shopping, living, and socializing virtually for the past 12 months has taught us anything, it is that every Virginian needs a good broadband connection. How does it work and how do we get there? We look at this broad term that is bandied about but seems always out of reach (or is it?)

March – Energy for Housing

Take a growing population, add some increased demand for housing, stir with a legislatively mandated push to renewable energy and pour into a state poised to reimagine how residences consume, retain and reuse energy and you've got a recipe for innovation.

April – 2021 General Assembly Wrap-Up

Qualified immunity, legal marijuana, and affordable housing are among the big topics set to dominate the short session. We get some expert perspectives on these and other hot issues.

May – The Education Issue

2020 was a roller coaster year for education with schools going virtual, going back in person, going back to virtual and everything in between. We look at what was learned, what was lost and where we go from here. Also – the winners of our annual “If I Were Mayor” essay contest.

June – The Future of Elections: The Census, and Redistricting

Explore how Virginia is charting new territory in its efforts to prevent gerrymandering and ensure fair representation for all its citizens. Meet members of the first Virginia Redistricting Commission, learn about their decision-making process, and find out how the 2020 Census impacted your hometown

July/August – Homegrown

Local businesses, products, and foods are the best! Find out which ones our members chose as the most remarkable in our 2021 “Virginia You Love” contest.

September – Pre-Conference

We wrap up our year-long tour of the Towns of Loudoun with a closer look at the town where we will all gather on October 3: Leesburg! Plus, a tour of some the amazing features that make Loudoun County a great place to live, work, and play.

October – Post-Conference

Friends seen? Check. Business attended to? Check. Members elected? Check. Legislative priorities established? Check. VML 2021 Conference highlights and more!

November – Small Town, VA

There was a time when coming from a small town meant, for better or worse, being insulated from the world. But starting with the interstate and ending with the internet, small town residents are anything but cut off. In fact, the people that stay or move to them do so knowing full well what they stand to gain. In this issue we learn about the people and organizations making Virginia’s smallest towns world-class places to live.

December – Meet our new President

Our yearly wrap-up with an in-depth interview with VML’s new president plus an overview of what legislative priorities VML will tackle in the year to come.
